

GEOL 1610 – Introduction to Geology. Upon successful completion of this course, students will be able to: 1) describe the earth's composition and geological processes; 2) analyze interactions between humans and geological processes, and 3) apply geological principles to the interpretation of rocks and natural events.